

“ It is my pleasure to continue collaboration across the membership to drive the EU policies that create the right enabling frameworks for EV adoption, allowing companies to make commercial investments in recharging infrastructure and services and addressing the key bottlenecks that currently limit further profitable growth. Delivery of the ChargeUp Europe workplan requires successful policy development and advocacy delivery across a range of files.

---

Erno Scheers

Chair of Policy Committee, ChargeUp Europe

“ My focus remains on translating our policy priorities into action, and fostering a regulatory environment that supports the growth of our sector across Europe. I’m grateful to my industry peers for their trust and am honoured to be re-elected as Vice-Chair of ChargeUp Europe’s Policy Committee. Advancing EV charging requires a strong ecosystem approach—bringing together policymakers and industry stakeholders to ensure effective and scalable solutions.

---

Petar Georgiev

Vice-Chair of Policy Committee, ChargeUp Europe

“Europe’s EV transition is driven by regulation and built by industry. To succeed, policymakers must understand our fast-changing sector. I’m grateful to my colleagues at ChargeUp Europe for trusting me to help guide the thought leadership needed to inform decision-makers and society—and ensure this shift happens as quickly and smoothly as possible.

---

Maxwell Philp

Chair of Communications Committee, ChargeUp Europe

“ As e-mobility enters the mainstream and more and more people drive electric, the need to explain and demystify how the industry really works is ever more important. The Communications Committee of ChargeUp is where some of the best communicators in the business work together, and I'm happy to continue being a part of it.

---

Aaron Fishbone

Vice-Chair of Communications Committee, ChargeUp Europe

